THE COVER

The cover of this issue of Echoes captures the beauty of the scenic Rose-Hulman campus and the tough, but caring professors who teach and counsel some of the nation's most sought-after graduates in science and engineering.

The Rose-Hulman Graduate at a Glance

In this issue of Echoes we present the Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology alumni family from the first class in 1885 to the class of 1980 — one of the most interesting alumni bodies in the country.

Few, if any, colleges or universities in the country enjoy a greater loyalty than Rose-Hulman. We are in the enviable position (although not satisfied) of knowing the whereabouts of more than 5,150 of our 5,372 living alumni.

In preparing a number of major gift proposals in recent months, the Institute has been called upon to provide general information concerning the contributions our alumni make with respect to the kinds of jobs they hold and the diversification of their endeavors. As would be expected, Rose-Hulman graduates do quite well in our specialty of engineering and corporate management. They also make significant contributions to the fields of education, government, law, medicine and the military.

A healthy balance exists of those working for large corporations, small corporations and government agencies. Major corporations employ a majority of alumni, with 76 alumni serving as officers (president, vice president or chairman of the board) of these companies. Two hundred thirty-seven are considered to be in major management (chief engineer, division manager, plant manager, director of research and development or director of planning, etc).

Of course, the largest number of alumni are employed in engineering positions in large corporations as 1,485 have the title of plant engineer, design engineer, project engineer or engineer. The next largest group (527) is in production where their titles include supervisor, manager, group leader, team leader and product engineer. One hundred seventy-eight are in sales, while 85 are in administration or accounting, purchasing or computer operations. Seventeen are personnel or labor relations managers, while a dozen are corporate or patent attorneys.

The small corporations are represented by 117 officers, 51 in major management, 161 in engineering, and the balance of 400 in production, research and development, sales, personnel and law. Small business, insurance and real estate are represented by 158 alumni. Consulting and contracting, while employing only 202 alumni, provide a major emphasis. Eighty-eight are owner or an officer in a consulting firm, 61 are consulting engineers, while 33 are owner or an officer in a contracting firm.

Education, likewise, has slightly over 200 Rose-Hulman alumni represented. Twenty-four are in college or university administration, 100 are professors, 79 are full time graduate students, while 13 are either in secondary school teaching or administration. Two hundred four are in government service, while 235 are in the military in either an active service status or with defense-related research and development.

Those who are in the professions include 31 in research laboratories, 31 attorneys in private practice, 35 medical doctors, two dentists, nine ministers, six journalists, six in health care, two are directors of professional societies and three are commercial pilots.

As you browse through this directory, please help us find alumni for whom we do not have a current address. Persons who find the information to be out-of-date or in error are requested to correct this information on the reply mechanism found in the back of this publication and return it to Rose-Hulman.

Also, you will note that a few of the regional alumni clubs appear to be in a holding pattern. If you would like to help renew this fellowship in your area or have suggestions for the expansion of clubs in new areas, please call this to the attention of James L. Schwartz '54, director of alumni affairs and special events.

Communication is not true communication unless it is two-way. Please keep in touch with Rose-Hulman and assist the Institute in its continuing mission of providing the environment, teachers and facilities required to produce the Rose-Hulman graduate.
