Friday night, before the big game, Rose proved once more that the old saying "a few good men can turn over bad money" is just as true of the ranks of more common-place institutions, as it was of the Swiss General Electric Co. and taken over much needed equipment.

The Indiana Bulletin, Nov. 10, has this statement about Technic's profit and loss account the case will be dropped.

The Illinois Technic, Nov. 10, has this statement about the Technic staff on the night after the Normal game, November twelfth, the Institute was marked by a very large attendance and for the sake of old Rose spirit that was so evident in the afternoon was shown in a different way. A splendid operatic performance in the purchase of a Motion Picture outfit.

Prof. Kollmayer, who was largely instrumental in securing this gift, is now investigating the various makes of motion picture machines and it is expected that the order for one will shortly be placed.

This is a piece of equipment which has long been needed at Rose, and it is now possible to secure many extremely interesting films covering industrial operations and the various phases of the automobile industry. Hereafter, the lack of equipment for exhibiting, them has prohibited the possibility of showing them.

We are under all very great obligation to the Operators Association and to Mr. Peats for this valuable and much needed equipment.

Normal’s fall was noticed last year it was noticeable that given last year it was noticed that many good, minded men are realizing the harm of the school as well. It is well known this practice is doing and know that cribbing should be driven from the institution.

The Rose-Normal game was probably the closest football game played to Terre Haute this year. The game was hard fought throughout but the spirit and sportsmanship displayed by the students of both Normal and Rose was of the best. In years gone by cribbing has not been looked upon with disfavor by the majority of the students. Today, however, every student knows that the institutions are realizing the harm the cribbing is doing and know that cribbing should be driven from the institution.

Not a Bad Idea.
A rather amusing accident occurred during the recent meeting in Junior Applied Mechanics. Shortly after the expiration of the hour the professor announced that Eugene L. Whitlock, probably better known as "Billie" was leaning forward on his desk; his head hung down as though he were about to fall asleep, but instead of falling asleep he rose up and announced that he had been only momentarily stunned by his first period of questions and had intended to return. However, after twenty minutes had passed and nothing had happened the professor, Professor McCormick thought he best to attempt waking him. After several repeated efforts the professor was successful in awakening him and demanded an explanation. Whitlock stated that he had fallen asleep hoping to dream the answers to the questions. His grade in this subject will show whether or not his novel plan was successful.

Foolish Youth.
After a careful inquiry about the matter it has been learned that three students studen t in the recent mechanical graphics class were out of town on Monday. The three men were from out of town and consequently did not know that there was an automobile race at the ball park.

Why Vel
It has been suggested that on next year's graphics and engineering Rosse Dillen's sketching classes. At present it is very difficult to see a line drawn with a .44 pencil.
