At colleges across the nation and around the world, students are pushed to academia, excellence, often at the expense of their mental health. As a result, college students are especially vulnerable to anxiety and depression, ultimately leaving them at risk of committing suicide.

To combat this, the Student Counseling Center is hosting a myriad of events throughout the week to raise awareness and to help honor those who have lost their lives to suicide. Suicide Prevention Awareness Week begins Monday with the Candlelight Vigil at Terre Haute City Hall.

This is the second annual event organized by Members of TeamMercy, a non-profit organization committed to helping grieving family and friends. As the sun goes down, those in attendance will read the names of those who have lost their lives to suicide, lighting candles and sending lanterns into the sky by balloon.

Monday is also the first day that members of the Rose community can reserve tickets for Suicide: The Ripple Effect. The documentary tells the story of Kevin Hines, who attempted suicide by jumping off the Golden Gate Bridge at the age of 19. Now, Hines is an advocate for mental health and a motivational speaker. The documentary follows Hines’s story and the “ripple effect” of how his story has changed the lives of others.

Suicide: The Ripple Effect will be shown at Terre Haute’s AMC Showplace Theater beginning October 20 at 7:30 p.m., but getting tickets early will help guarantee a seat.

Tickets cost $5, which will be refunded the night of the movie, and are available for pickup Monday through Wednesday during 6th and 7th hour. The event is sponsored by Lost & Found, the Wabash Valley Suicide Prevention Coalition, Team of Mercy, and Mental Health America of Central Indiana.

On Thursday, the Rose-Hulman community is encouraged to wear yellow to support Suicide Awareness. In addition to this, there will be a presentation of the film It’s Real: College Students Mental Health in the Heritage Room during 6th and 7th hour.

The movie, produced by the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention (AFSP), is designed to raise awareness about mental health issues commonly experienced by students and is intended to be used as part of a school’s educational program to encourage help-seeking. The Rose-Hulman Suicide Prevention Awareness Week is another Candlelight Vigil in White Chapel, beginning 5th hour.

Throughout the week, memory flags will be available for writing messages to remember those who have lost their lives and to encourage those who are still with us. While Suicide Prevention Awareness Week is coming to an end with the conclusion of the White Chapel Candlelight Vigil, the ideas which will be promoted this week will be important to maintain and remember the entire year.

Suicide in the United States claims 40,000 lives annually, and globally, it is an epidemic that leads to 900,000 deaths every year. Raising awareness is just one key to saving lives the world over.

Fire in Brazilian National Museum

Calegh Kintner
Staff Writer

It’s been a rough week since a blaze of fire spread throughout Brazil’s 200-year-old National Museum, winning the historic institution and decreasing the majority of its collections.

Our Researchers are still waiting to enter the building’s ruins to evaluate the extent of the damage, but the Associated Press’s Marcelo Si- de Souza and Maurice Benar- vese report that firefighters have been laboring tirelessly as flames engulfed the building, destroying thousands of irreplaceable artifacts.

A set of Torah scrolls, the Benedo meteorite and a portion of the museum’s mollusk and vertebrate collections are among the items said to have escaped the flames, while Lu- zia, an 11,500-year-old skull considered one of South America’s oldest human fos- sils, as well as the bones of Brazilian creatures such as the long-necked dinosaur Muruaro- thomsoni were lost. Up to 90 percent of the collection is feared lost.

Many researchers’ life works were lost in the fire. Brazil’s National Museum had the world’s top system in place at the time of the fire.

Brarians blame the government for the lack of funds that have been given to the museum in the past years. The museum is in need of funds to rebuild the museum, but most Brazilians are not hopeful due to lack of funding.

The Pen is mightier than the sword, join us. Tuesdays at 5:15 in O259.
A female linchaker making a pivotal tackle. A child with no legs dominating a wrestling match. These images are as heartwarming as they are inspiring—they remind us that anything is possible, even with the odds stacked against you by self-doubt. However, Nike's Super Bowl ad showed just how much potential they can contain. The voice they chose to narrate each story was done by none other than Athlete magazine cover star and 14-time Olympic medalist Allyson Felix.

On the lens through which this information is presented to them: the media. For better or for worse, Conservative media is good at choosing a story and sticking to it. Consistency is key in controlling people's viewpoints and responses. By painting kneeling as an affront to our anthem as contempt for our heroes, they frame the issue. People focus on the actions rather than the injustice. It becomes a battle of patriotism vs. disrespect, a battle of visual representation vs. substance. The unfortunate reality is that this fleeting controversy is unlikely to solve the underlying problems it has exposed.

Another source of controversy was Rev. Jasper Williams Jr.'s eulogy of Aretha Franklin, in which he made several comments about the Black Lives Matter movement followed by ambiguous ones on single motherhood. Franklin's family responded to negatively to his eulogy, and in a statement issued on behalf of the family, Aretha Franklin's nephew, Vaughan Franklin, said that "Rev. Jasper Williams spent more than 50 minutes speaking and at no time did he properly eulogize her [Aretha]. We feel that Rev. Jasper Williams Jr. is out of place and contributed to a neglect of her legacy, and her family would like to set the record straight on what she did in her life and work."

I unironically enjoy polka music. Maybe it’s because Alfred Al Yankovic has made it palatable for the 21st century, but I find it to be genuinely funny, entertaining music. To be honest, that was what initially interested me in the Netflix original movie The Polka King. What got me to watch was seeing Jack Black play a Polish polka band leader who was arrested and put in prison for Ponzi scheme. Oh, and the fact it was all a true story.

Jan Lewan, formerly Jan Lewanowski of Poland, came to America to pursue his version of the American Dream. With his wife Marla, his son David, and mother-in-law Barb depending on him, Lewan did everything and anything he could to earn enough to make ends meet. Quite frankly, delivering pizzas, selling souvenirs, and playing polka music isn’t cutting it. However, getting his elderly fans to invest in his band might bring in the dough. And it did. It also brought in the feds to tell him it was illegal. Lewan is deeply apologetic, he won’t do it again. But in order to pay back the money he owes, he needs more money. But getting the good press of the goodness of his heart, he helps his investee diversify their funds to a different investee.

Lewan’s antics escatole from there, including bribing the Vatican so his investors—on a sham of a European vacation—can meet the Pope, and fixing the Miss Pennsylvania beauty contest; even his putative pageant so his wife can win. However, the investee, the investments mount, and Lewan can’t hide forever.

Jack Black is underutilized. When he’s good, he steals the movie. High Fidelity is a good example, this movie in another. There was not a scene in the film in which Black was not the center of attention. Even if you just catch one episode of Brooklyn 99, which is available on HULU for streaming, you will see how the character of Jake Peralta is played by Andy Samberg of Saturday Night Live and The Lonely Island fame. Jake is Jack Black’s Andy’s typi- cal archetype of a character: A guy that is simultaneously very good at what he does and incredibly incompotent in most parts of his life. However, over the course of the show we see Jake become a better person thanks to the influence of his friend-enemy, turned love interest, Amy Santiago. Melissa Fumero does an excellent job playing the incredibly straitlaced Amy Santiago. Over the course of the show, Amy and Jake help each other break out of their comfort levels and evolve into better and more round-ed people.

One of the most notable performances in the entire series is Chelsea Peretti’s brilliant portrayal of Gina Linetti. Gina is a hyperbolic millennial playing into every negative stereotype ever written about them; however, throughout the show we see Gina go out of her way to help her friends and show that millennials actually are capable of great things. Gina also provides some of the greatest comedic moments in the entire show.

I highly recommend watching all of Brooklyn 99, which is available on HULU for streaming, but the show will still impress you even if you just catch one episode somewhere. I cannot wait to see if NBC changes the show at all before they bought the rights from FOX.

Standing in the heart of the city of Nashville, the Frist Muse-num occupies the main post office, one of the historic landmarks of the city. The Frist Museum has hosted multiple exhibitions since opening in 2001, both national and international. It is currently hosting a exhibition: Chaos and Awe. The Presence of Your Absence is Everywhere, We Shall Overcome, and Image Building.

Although it took my friend and me 7 hours to go through everything in detail, we enjoyed every second and were mesmerized by the messages that the artists have put into each of their exhibitions.

Chaos and Awe was an exhibition of contemporary art from different countries around the world. It held amazing pieces in which the artists combine cultural issues, tough memories, and emotion. It also had tremendous places where the artists show some the damaging forces of the 21st century, such as ter-or, the displacement of population, and incompatible ideologies, and how it has affected our world. Although there were some optimistic pieces, the pieces that conveyed a much darker side of humanity affected me more.

The Presence of Your Absence is Everywhere was an exbition of sculptures and drawings by the artist Afruz Amighi.
Amighi was born in Iran in 1974 but had to move to the US due to the instability of Iran during the Islamic revolution. Using light and dark as her main theme, she manages to tell stories of her mixed Iranian-American heritage, political events, and explodes myths about the famous Taj Mahal.

New Student Worker Position Available on Campus

Tired of tripping over backpacks strewn haphazardly across the floor of the union? Me neither. Luckily, Rose-Hulman has come up with an ingenious way to keep those rascally rucksacks out of underfoot and in the cubbies that they so pointedly installed for student use.

Starting next quarter, a new student worker position will be available: Cubby Attendant. Much like a courtroom attendant, the new cubby attendant will store backpacks and coats to the cubbies as people enter the Bon and return them as they leave. Check-in and check-out will be as simple as swiping your card.

Rose hopes that introducing the position will help alleviate the stress of learning how to use cubbies. “We admit that there was a high learning curve. I mean, most kids haven’t had to use cubbies since Kindergarten, if at all,” says the unified voice of Rose. They are excited to see how it will go, already planning on installing a second cubby attendant near the entrance of the book store.

However, opinions on the student side are not as overwhelmingly positive. As I entered the Union to get statements, students scattered. The unfortunate ones that tripped over backpacks in their haste to get away were promptly cornered.

“The cubbies are stupid,” says one downed student. “Could you, uh, help me to Health Services? I think I sprained my ankle.”

After refusing to assist the boy and walking away, we found somebody happy to use the cubbies. In fact, we found the only student who uses the cubbies: Emma Oswood.

“This is a great idea,” Oswood states, “I’m really excited for the change. I might even audition for the job. It does pay better than my current job.”

The new cubby attendant position will pay $9.50/hour. However, students looking to fill the spot are required to have work study. Audition times for the position will be posted on My-Rose-Hulman soon.

Tired of tripping over backpacks strewn haphazardly across the floor of the union? Me neither. Luckily, Rose-Hulman has come up with an ingenious way to keep those rascally rucksacks out of underfoot and in the cubbies that they so pointedly installed for student use.

Starting next quarter, a new student worker position will be available: Cubby Attendant. Much like a courtroom attendant, the new cubby attendant will store backpacks and coats to the cubbies as people enter the Bon and return them as they leave. Check-in and check-out will be as simple as swiping your card.

Rose hopes that introducing the position will help alleviate the stress of learning how to use cubbies. “We admit that there was a high learning curve. I mean, most kids haven’t had to use cubbies since Kindergarten, if at all,” says the unified voice of Rose. They are excited to see how it will go, already planning on installing a second cubby attendant near the entrance of the book store.

However, opinions on the student side are not as overwhelmingly positive. As I entered the Union to get statements, students scattered. The unfortunate ones that tripped over backpacks in their haste to get away were promptly cornered.

“The cubbies are stupid,” says one downed student. “Could you, uh, help me to Health Services? I think I sprained my ankle.”

After refusing to assist the boy and walking away, we found somebody happy to use the cubbies. In fact, we found the only student who uses the cubbies: Emma Oswood.

“This is a great idea,” Oswood states, “I’m really excited for the change. I might even audition for the job. It does pay better than my current job.”

The new cubby attendant position will pay $9.50/hour. However, students looking to fill the spot are required to have work study. Audition times for the position will be posted on My-Rose-Hulman soon.
