Diversity Connect is an annual Rose-Hulman event where students are challenged to solve real-world problems that are designed by Rose-Hulman faculty. The main focus of these projects is Diversity Connect is to use Societi Conflict Resolutions Organizations (SIOs), such as NSBE, SASE, SHPE, SWE, and others. These organizations to encourage participants that are interested in recruiting Rose-Hulman students to help in the top moments of this year’s sponsors included Rickwell Collins, Lilly, and Marathon underwriting. The event began on September 12th with an information session, which ran until October 2nd, which is when the winning teams were announced. Students from Rose-Hulman competed to design a monitoring system for our campus to a quiet apartment complex and feel better about your money, you will see students by your friends on campus. You are ready for the first day of classes by taking a shower in a bathroom that you have to share with only your self. You make breakfast for yourself in a kitchen that is completely your own, so it is your responsibility to clean it. Naturally, this extra responsibility would be met with enthusiasm from you and not from you. You are a junior now. You have been through two years of this agony, and you have been wiser because of it. You are imbued with a sense of calm and ambition that you tell yourself you will finally last all quarter even though, when you are not true (Thank God, it’s almost Fall Break).

You continue to day, hop in your car, drive to campus, and find that a big metal shed is lying on top of your parking spot. In fact, it is taking up quite a few parking spots, one complaint seniors have had is parking. With the addition of the observatory, which decreases the quality of astronomical observations made at the Oakley Observatory on campus. Urban legends in America were spawned as this duo was pecking zor-blade-infused candy apples, and on Astros World Series treats. In Australia, however, it may not be quite as bad. Turning up in supermarket strawberry boxes all over Queensland, thoughts of yet being wounded, there have been multiple reports of consumers accidentally swallowing the litany of sharp metal objects.

Queensland premier Anastasia Palaszczuk sees this as an act of domestic terrorism and is determined to find the perpetrator, who has an over $70,000 USD bounty on their head. If caught, the individual or group of individuals would be facing up to 10 years in prison. "It is simply unacceptable. I am furious about this," exclaimed the premier at a press conference last week.

What could possibly be the motive for such a crime? Current suspicions lie on a group or individual targeting the Queensland strawberry industry in response to the crisis, with pulling strawberries from their shelves. Woolworths, the dominant food distributor for the country of New Zealand, has announced that they will not be importing their strawberries from Australia anymore. Though the $2 million AUD Queensland strawberry industry is far from collapsing, the next few weeks and months are a PR and business disaster.

Whatever the intent, the speed and efficiency with which the perpetrators brought their plans to fruition is impressive. Until they are caught, Australia and New Zealand will stay wary of a litany of sharp metal objects.

Local residents join forces with the military to search for survivors and clear the streets of debris.

Flooding in India’s Kerala State

Jonathan Krawuchi
Staff Writer

In the southwest of India, on a coastal strip located between the Arabian Sea and the Western Ghats, the state of Kerala has been receiving what is considered the worst monsoon since 1924. Around July 20, the rainfall recorded by the National Center for Medium Range Weather Forecasts was notable. As of July 23, the rainfall statistics reported 164% more rainfall than usual. Additionally, it is estimated to have caused $3 billion in losses and damaged crops on the scale of homes throughout Kerala, according to officials. With widespread extensive infrastructure waterborne threats, such as water damage comes flooding, ter snakes and waterborne diseases spreading. Many residents sought safety from the floods in various structures which is threatened in the base of the mountain range, which is recognized as an UNESCO World Heritage Site, but also making some areas more susceptible to disasters, such as floods. Even the operators of these dams had improperly responded to the dangers high water levels, as Kerala authorities opened the gates of 35 of the state’s 39 dams. Despite being cited as a necessary measure, many experts suggested that the reservoirs should have been drained gradually, and much earlier than they were. According to Murale Thummarukudy, chief of disaster risk reduction at the U.N. Environment Program in Geneva, Kerala “was definitely not prepared for a disaster of such magnitude.”

Saturday Night Live Returns!

Colin Jost

Guest Writer

Live from New York, it’s Saturday Night! Yes, the newest season of the popular Saturday Night Live (or SNL for short) has begun. The program has reached its 44th year and is still going on strong. Over the past week, we’ve watched the show again and again, but last week on September 27th, addressing topics from Frank.turner to Margot, and the more recent Brett Kavanaugh hearing, held a special Saturday Night Live event. The show was a good start to the season for creator and producer Lorne Michaels, with a reported 7% rise in views from last year’s debut.

The first host for the show was Adam Driver, the best actor to play Han Solo in the new Star Wars installments, and now for his first ever movie BlackKklansman. With hisawan style, Driver talked with cast members during his monologue. He joked about what people do over the summer, how everyone always “searched a bit, traveled a little,” and how he wishes to escape the internet during interactions.

Driver’s best performance came from a sketch about Career Day at school, where he played a very intense oil tycoon. Driver’s character screamed about crushing everyone rising to the top of industry, with something they wanted to just be like him (all while his son, played by Pete Davidson, is constantly embarrassed). Other sketches either a-hit or a-miss. Among the better ones was Driver as a dad attempting to play Fortnite with a younger Neo-Confederate meeting with people fighting for “paradise” is basically Vermont. As for the Weekend Update, anchors Colin Jost and Michael Che were joined by Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg (played by Kate McKinon), Serena Williams (played by Leslie Jones), and Pete Davidson, who spoke about his recent marriage with Ariana Grande.

The Weekend Update stand-out act of the night was the 2nd season of the show, which isn’t going to come change of pace to see a second time hosting SNL, this week had its ups and downs, but viewers are saying Pete was “on fire.” The hot new trend for comedy is clearly passionate and caring yet comedic. Cho’s performance, quite possibly gives his best performance yet as a character. He has been further from finding his daughter, Margot, and tracking her down by accessing her internet history. The show was a special Saturday Night Live event.

A Review of the Mystery Film 'Searching'*

Jonathan Kawauchi

After a summer of over-saturation with the new norm of larger than life superhero movies, it’s a welcome change to see a more grounded yet compelling storyline. The film takes place in a character’s world, where he plays a very intense oil tycoon. Driver’s character screamed about crushing everyone rising to the top of industry, with something they wanted to just be like him (all while his son, played by Pete Davidson, is constantly embarrassed). Other sketches either a-hit or a-miss. “Searching” provides an engaging, tight script with no time wasted.

Justice Kavanaugh, Damon, who was working on a separate project in California, agreed to play the part and flew to New York the day of showing, having just hours to learn and perform the script. And it was a great success. In fact, in what I wish the script was, the character was expertly, and Damon’s yelling and mannerisms he learned in a top.

Musical guest Kanye West performed his song’s “I Love It” (ft. Lil Pump and Adele). Given “We Love It” (ft. Teyana Taylor), and “Ghost Town” (ft. Kid Comfort), I think about his support. The third performance came during the closing credits. More even interesting was Kanye's delivery of the song. For me, Kanye delivered the performance. After time has passed, viewers are saying “on fire.” The hot new trend for comedy is clearly passionate and caring yet comedic. in a very similar fashion to Chiptole, Moe’s, and Qdoba Mexican grill. This means that it is fast food although, the quality of food is on an entirely new level as cabled in comparison to the chain equivatants. Anyone that has been to this restaurant may as well give up buying a burrito from anywhere else as the food here puts others to shame. As if this wasn’t the best thing about this restaurant they also open from 11am until 3am Monday through Wednesday, from 11am to 4am on Thursday through Saturday they are open from 11am to midnight.

The late night Chavas run has become a staple to anyone look for fast food past midnight and the food seems to never disappoint.
For anyone that has ever wanted food for a dollar. As unhealthy as this tastes it sure does taste amazing.

The worst thing about this restaurant is the price of the food as it is definitely more ex-ensive than any other burrito chain although their food does justify this price.

Next on the list is Real Hacienda located well... all around this town. This is a chain restaurant that has three locations in Terre Haute. There is one next to Walmart, one near Rick’s on Wabash, another near IHP on US Highway 43. This restaurant, in contrast to Chavas, is a more traditional Mexican restaurant and is a sit down establishment in contrast to being fast food.
The food here is in my eyes on the same level as Chava’s although there is a much wider selection.

With different TV’s as well around the area you could say that this is the Buffalo Wild Wings equivalent to any fast food Mexican food restaurant. The food here again is very reasonable so get a few entries here and shouldn’t set you back too much.
My personal favorite is the pollotapatio at this restaurant. That is a rice plate with cheese and chicken all over it. As simple as this sounds it sure does taste amazing.

In all, I hope you take a few of my tips when you’re looking for some food around campus in the future. There are many places to eat in Terre Haute and it can never hurt to try something new around town.

Millennial Media Madness

Cable is dead

streaming services is the true question.

We have also seen a sharp turn in the video game industry as buying a game directly from the digital stores is as easy as ever. Downloaded games have been very popular among the computer gaming industry due to the online stores like Steam, Battle.net, and Origin. These offer an advantage as they never have to be replaced as digital media does not scratch or break. If originally purchased, they can be played literally at the minute of release of that such game. This has led to a decrease in the buying of physical media as people are slowly going towards this digital option.

We can only imagine how much the industry will change in the future as we are slowly phasing away all of our digital media. Cable, CDs, and physical storage in general may soon be a thing of the past if the trend continues on the path it is on now.

Because October is National Pizza Month!

First dreamed up by corporate ghouls and Dr. Mark Hays, the National Pizza Month was created to allow stressed college students to find a novel way to spend their textbook money. Namely, on daily deliveries of pizza. How fantastic!
