The Student Activities Board (SAB) brought a couple of musicians on campus last Friday for their “Coffee House” event. Music filled the Mussallem Union on Friday as students grabbed a cupcake or coffee. If students preferred another drink, tea, hot chocolate, and warm cider was also made available, free of charge. The event ran from 6:00 pm - 8:30 pm, encouraging students to relax after making it through 2 weeks of winter quarter.

The live music, played entirely by two musicians, a guitarist and a lead singer, featured covers of pop songs, some R&B, renditions on Christmas songs, and even some originals, written by the lead singer himself. The singer, who lives in New York, gave his audience anecdotes that would transition from one song to another. Some were about the Christmas season, others were about love and relationships, while still others were about heartbreak.

The combination of the two—coffee and live music—temporarily converted the Union into a strange mixture of bar and café, while students gathered in groups and talked or played a game like checkers or foosball. This is just the first in a series of events that do their best to counteract winter quarter’s unique ability to drain students’ motivation. Expect to find other events like this one hosted throughout winter quarter, especially during the 7-week stretch after break.

Birdhouse Building Workshop

Alicya Russell
Staff Writer

On Wednesday December 11, the BIC hosted a wonderful opportunity for students, including myself, to work with wood and create their own bird houses based on a template. Students were given a long piece of wood, with the ends shaped for the front and back of the bird house. Supplied with a pencil and a measuring tape, I was able to consult the instructions to get the measurements and mark up the wood to get ready for cutting. After marking up the front, back, two sides, and the base, the instructor and I moved over to the wood-cutting tool set up. Described as the safest tool in the workshop, the tool consisted of a large rotary cutting blade, with a thick plastic shield, mounted to an arm. The plastic shield would move as the rotary blade moved up and down. After carefully cutting the wood at the marks I previously made, I blew the saw dust from the freshly cut pieces and was let loose to begin assembling my bird house.

Provided with two drills needed for drilling holes and drilling in screws, the instructor helped me clamp down my wood to the work table to make sure it wouldn’t start spinning out of place. After a bit of adjusting and rigging, I was finished with the four walls of the bird house, ready to take two other pieces of precut wood to create the roof. Following the attaching of the roof, wiping away the sawdust, and cleaning the workspace, I had in my hands a fully built birdhouse!

It was exciting to go through the process with the instructor and the other students. I didn’t realize working with wood would be a lot of fun, especially with the rotary blade. I hope I will have more time in the future to attend many more of these sessions! Until then I will painting my birdhouse. Find similar events and more on MyRose-Hulman.
Our Mission Statement:

We are Rose-Hulman’s independent student newspaper. We keep the Rose-Hulman community informed by providing an accurate and dependable source for news and information.

Dalal Bima | Editor-in-Chief
William Kemp | Business Manager
William Kemp | Rose News Editor
Dara Naidu | World News Editor
Jared Gibson | Entertainment Editor
Colin Beach | Flipside Editor
Aidan Moulder | Opinions Editor
Caleigh Kintner | Sports Editor
Rithvik Subramanya | Flipside Editor
Andrew Henderson | Staff Writer
Jonathan Kawacinski | Staff Writer
Alyssa Russell | Staff Writer
Dr. Thomas Adams | Faculty Advisor

Issues of The Rose Thorn are published on the second through ninth Mondays of each academic quarter.

Weekly meetings occur at 5:00 p.m. on the first through ninth Tuesdays of each academic quarter. All members of the Rose-Hulman community are welcome to attend.

Submission of articles, photographs, art, and letters to the editor is encouraged. Submission may be made by email to thorn@rose-hulman.edu or in person to Percopo room 031. The submission deadline is 5:00 p.m. Friday.

The rights to accept submissions or changes made after the deadline, to edit submissions in so far as the original intent of the submission remains unaltered, and to reject submissions deemed inappropriate for print are reserved by the editors.

The views expressed herein are those of their respective authors and with the exception of the Staff View do not necessarily represent the views of the staff or the Rose-Hulman community.

The Pen is mightier than the sword
Tuesdays 5:00p O259.
The UK Election: What It Means

Andrew Henderson
Staff Writer

Last Thursday on December 12th, 2019 the United Kingdom had another General Election. The election was started by the Conservative party in reaction to Parliament’s inability to pass a withdrawal agreement with the European Union. The election agreement would be the final stage of Brexit discussion and would require the removal of the United Kingdom from the European Union. Parliament was unable to pass the agreement as the pro-Brexit Conservative party had no majority and the minority parties, especially the Labour party blocked the agreement. The snap election was called by Boris Johnson in the hopes of gaining a majority in the parliament, which would mean the conservative party would not need the support of any other party to pass future legislation.

The next Friday morning the United Kingdom had a landslide victory by the Conservative Party. This landslide victory carried the Conservative party to hold 397 seats. On top of this, after the victories the Labour party lost 60 seats. This landslide victory by the Conservative means the UK parliament will most likely pass the policies of the conservative party uncontested. It is also means that it almost definitely that Boris Johnson will now be able to pass his withdrawal agreement by his original end of January 2020 deadline. This will create major changes for the UK, European Union and the world.

Top of this, after the victories the SNP had in Scotland there have already been calls by the leader of the SNP Nicola Sturgeon for a second referendum on Scottish independence. A referendum on the independence of Scotland. A referendum on whether the Scottish should leave the United Kingdom had occurred in 2014 before the Brexit referendum, where the Scottish voted 55.3% to not leave the UK. However, the Scottish population is majorly remaining to stay within the European Union. Now with it nearly guaranteed that the UK will be leaving the EU, many Scottish citizens and SNP politicians are calling for a new referendum as they believe the controversial concept of leaving the EU has changed Scottish citizens minds. It is possible that the UK will leave the EU, while Scotland leaves the UK to stay within the EU. The other major discussion occurring in UK politics currently is what caused the near collapse of the Labour Party. Much blame is currently being placed on the Labour party leader Jeremy Corbyn. Some polls show that the main reason past Labor voters switched to conservative was out of a dislike of Corbyn per say. However, over the previous months there’s been quite a few scandals surrounding Jeremy Corbyn in the media, especially some claims of anti-Semitism. Since the announcement of the election results Jeremy Corbyn has announced that he will be resigning as leader of the Labour Party. Who will take his place is still unknown.

Boris Johnson, Conservative prime minister of the United Kingdom.

Image courtesy of The New Statesman

Jonathan Kawauso
Staff Writer

This week, Prime Minister Boris Johnson and the Conservative Party won a strong majority in the British Parliament, setting up the way for the Brexit Campaign.

The tremendous Conservative victory landed them about a 75-seat majority over the Labour Party, the largest advantage since Margaret Thatcher’s tenure in 1987. Even during the last election in 2017 Labour seats in the northern sections and midlands of the UK have been taken, despite those areas being labelled the “red wall” and typically Labour areas. This victory is a wake up to a much safer heaven for several decades. Consider the Conservative’s success in the northern Brexit campaign setting up a clear selling point for James Corby and the Labour Party, a defeat of this magnitude brings Corbyn’s leadership and the Labour Party’s future under question.

The victory does not come without cost. The Scottish National Party was projected to win 49 of Scotland’s 59 seats. The party has publicly opposed the Brexit campaign for some time, and could re-open a campaign for some time, and could re-open a campaign for a new referendum on Scottish independence. It’s difficult to comprehend the pain in fortunes for Boris Johnson considering all that’s happened in the past year. In September, he had faced a mutiny from about two dozen Conservative members over his threat to leave the EU without a properly negotiated deal. Recently, Johnson’s Supreme Court ruled that his decision to suspend Parliament for five weeks was unlawful. Yet all those issues seem small now, as the Labour Party is now all other parties like the Liberal Democrats, have all been losing seats in this Brexit-focused election.

The Labour Party’s failure to propose a clear plan on how to address Brexit if they had won was a clear and possibly critical weakness in their campaign. Rather than take a hard stance on staying or leaving in the EU, Corbyn simply pledged to renegotiate the withdrawal agreement and then put the new deal to a vote with a remain option on the ballot.

“[It was possibly the years of] Brexit-limbo that worked in favor for the Conservatives.”

It was possibly the years of Brexit limbo that ironically worked in favor for the Conservatives. With a campaign promise of “Get Brexit Done”, the election narrative was solely on the issue of Brexit, rather than issues with the NHS or other social reforms that might have been advantageous to the Labour Party’s platform.

This election comes with strong implications for the future of the United Kingdom. Unlike the narrow 2016 election, this overwhelming victory for the Tories comes with a critical realizations that the majority of English citizens wish to leave the European Union. Brussels has also decided to leave the EU, working out a “divorce” deal with the UK, although past trade negotiations fell through. With a strong Conservative majority in hand, all that’s left to do is negotiate an agreement with the European Union before their December 31, 2020 deadline. If that cannot be managed, either the dead line must be extended, which John son had promised not to do, or the UK will leave without a deal.
Netflix releases new animated Comedy

Green Eggs and Ham Review

New Netflix Original for Kids and Adults to Enjoy

William Kemp
News Editor

The recently released Netflix original "Green Eggs and Ham" is a truly captivating Dr. Seuss's original work. This is one of the first shows by Netflix designed for a younger audience, however, I am not afraid to admit I enjoyed every second of the 13 episode season. While it may keep its childlike charm, there are many instances with a little more adult undertones.

The storyline ties in the original green eggs and ham theme, but there are so many new challenges introduced to the main characters.

Sam I Am the wildlife expert and Gay Am I (failed) in terest both find themselves on their way to Mezicville with the "super dangerous" chiceraffe. Throughout their journey the keep running into an over protective mother, Michelle, and her daughter, E.B. Together, all of them evade the clutches of the BigCaygs who are trying to steal Mr. Jenkins the Chiceraffe.

Truly taking advantage of every sauciness absurdity, the complex world this show takes place in is surreal. With swimming pool like puddles, elevator parks, and offices full of literal bean counters and pencil pushers, there is simply no way to predict what sort of abstract thing is going to come next.

This can also be said for the characters and their backstories. I don't want to spoil anything, but things get pretty deep and you may want to have a couple tissues handy later in the sea- sons.

As enjoyable as this show would be to watch as a kid, the Lex Miserable and Shank sash redemption references really made it enjoyable for me, and I'm sure older audiences too. I really appreciated the fact that I could enjoy this as someone who grew up with the book Green Eggs and Ham and still not feel like I'm watching a kids show. On the technical side of things, did you know each epi- sode almost cost $5 to 6 million to make?

How insane is that? When comparing the length and cost of other Netflix shows, Green Eggs and Ham definitely makes the top 10 list for most expensive.

Part of the reason is each epi- sode is old school, frame-by- frame animation. It's incredibly rare today.
With the holidays comes presents, and with presents come wrapping paper. But people, especially little kids, just tear through the wrapping. In the end, a lot goes to waste and you have to buy more paper year after year. However, there are many other ways to give your gifts without ending up with a trash bag full of crumpled and torn paper. They can save you time, money, and even help the environment. Here are just a few ideas:

- Gift bags – Yes, bags are often as commonly used as wrapping paper, but you can get multiple uses out of them. Keep the bags you get from Christmas and reuse them the next year; who you give it to can use it again as well (my mother will do the same thing with the tissue paper too). In addition, if it’s a plain enough style, you can reuse the gift bag for birthdays or other parties.

- Mason jars – Though you’ll be able to see what’s inside, mason jars still offer great value as a gift holder. Usually used to store food, people will be able to reuse them for their snacks, candy, or even drinks. The jars are glass, so they are both sustainable and nice-looking. Decorate it with a bow, and you’re good to go.

- Boxes – Sometimes, all you need is a cardboard box and your imagination. It’s ok to have that plain base color. Use it as a canvas and decorate with markers or paints. Wrap with ribbon to secure lids or cover tape, and you’ll have a container with some character.

- Newspaper and duct tape – My uncle’s personal favorite. Cheap, easy to do, and entertaining to watch whoever unwraps it.

- Shirts – It may sound weird, but this creative method of wrapping is very useful. If you plan on giving someone a shirt, and they have other small gifts too, wrap them in the shirt. To hold it in, tie the sleeves together (best with long sleeves) or secure loose ends with pins and ribbon [see more instructions to the left]. Similarly, if you have an old shirt you don’t need anymore, cut it into a large square and use it as a fabric “wrapping paper.”

- Space savers – Combine gifts together to save wrapping material and space. Put candles in empty bottles, toys in backpacks, and so much more.

---

The Right Way to Wrap

Creative Ideas when Covering your Presents

The Right Way to Wrap

Christmas Glogg

Now that it’s getting chilly outside and the holiday season has started, it’s time to break out the wine…and brandy. Glogg originated in Scandinavia and would be served as a means to keep warm during the wintertime. It takes a while to make, but oh boy is it worth it.

Ingredients
- 2 bottles Cabernet Sauvignon Wine
- 8 cups cranberry juice
- 3 cinnamon sticks
- 1/2 cup honey
- 5 whole cloves
- 2 oranges
- 3/4 cup brandy

Instructions
1. In a Crock-Pot, combine the wine, cranberry juice, cinnamon sticks, honey, cloves, and the juice of both oranges.
2. Heat until simmering (NOT boiling). Cover the pot and hold for 1 to 2 and a half hours.
3. Add the brandy and continue to simmer to taste.
4. When ready to serve pour, into your favorite mug and add a couple of orange slices (be sure not to pour cloves into mug).
5. Enjoy!
Improper Impeachment:

Why the Current Impeachment Proceedings Cannot Be Ignored

Aidan Moulde r
Opinions Editor

Some time last week, I walked into my work-study job and my supervisor was listening to the impeachment proceedings on a Youtube livestream. I’m not up to date on how the process is going, but what really got to me was how arrogant both sides sounded, and how just petty everyone was being. I consider myself to be a Democrat, and I agree with most party policies on a general level, but not always on specifics. Now, I fully understand that politics exist because people disagree on things, but just because you disagree with something doesn’t mean you have to be impolite about it.

Every time a member of the Republican party started speaking, he or she would say something along the lines of “If the Democrats case against President Donald Trump was hanging by a thread, and that there was in fact no case, and that this was a poor reflection on the United States government. The next Democrat to speak would refute these claims, and say something about “returning to the facts” and reiterating what the party actions but interpreting the answers differently just to push a personal agenda with very little connection to the goals of the party.

Something else that bugged me about the proceedings was the constant references to the Founding Fathers and how they intended for the Constitution and the powers it grants to the government to be used. In my opinion, the Constitution absolutely can not serve as a guide for government activities in the era of information we live in. It's an antiquated document which laid down a framework for how the government should function. For example, in regards to impeachment, the Constitution allows for impeachment offenses under a pretty wide umbrella. We live in a world of浏览器和抛弃, but using the blanket term "other high Crimes and Mis-deemors" to describe everything else. This ambiguous definition is left up to interpretation, and it’s not hard to believe that two different parties with two different systems of belief are making two different interpretations.

At the end of the day, as people who can’t directly affect policy, we can only sit and wait for the results of these proceedings, and hope that the future of our union will be much brighter than it currently looks.

The Importance of Literature

Andulra Krishnan
Guest Writer

The first step in my attempt to mark an of educators to search for the same kind of clarity in each topic to the extent that the nature of the matter accepts it," argued Aristotle. "For in every kind of literature, someone must be educated to be a critic; to be a critic in every kind of literature, one must have become educated about everything." The agreement among many by Aristotle juxtaposes the growing sentiment regarding expertise in modern times, critical opinions grounded in expertise remain derived from extensive knowledge yet extensive knowledge remains unattainable for the vast majority, in an age where information rooted in literature lies merely a few keystrokes away, it is easy for us to draw our own conclusions to the opinions of self-proclaimed "critics" who exist in the Internet, the first step in my attempt to mark an of educators to search for the same kind of clarity in each topic to the extent that the nature of the matter accepts it," argued Aristotle. "For in every kind of literature, someone must be educated to be a critic; to be a critic in every kind of literature, one must have become educated about everything." The agreement among many by Aristotle juxtaposes the growing sentiment regarding expertise in modern times, critical opinions grounded in expertise remain derived from extensive knowledge yet extensive knowledge remains unattainable for the vast majority, in an age where information rooted in literature lies merely a few keystrokes away, it is easy for us to draw our own conclusions to the opinions of self-proclaimed "critics" who exist in the Internet.
Women’s Basketball

Caleigh Kintner
Sports Editor

Bluffton University opened both halves with strong play to earn a 60-51 women’s basketball victory over Rose Hulman Institute of Technology on Saturday afternoon in Ohio.

Bluffton led 17-8 after the first quarter and relied on a 14-10 third quarter to keep a nine-point lead entering the fourth quarter. Bluffton built a 10-point lead in the fourth quarter, before Rose Hulman held Bluffton scoreless for over three minutes and scored the game’s last nine points to close within single digits.

Desiree Webster led the Rose Hulman offense with season-high totals of 10 points and 11 rebounds in her first career double-double. Hannah Woody added 10 points and five rebounds, and Nava Iglicki also reached double figures with 10 points.

Other key contributors to the Fights’ offense included Rose Burnham with eight points and four rebounds, and Nola Wilson with seven points and four rebounds.

Rose Hulman dropped to 0-2 in conference games. The Fights’ Engineers return home to face Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference foe Manchester University on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Men’s Basketball

Caleigh Kintner
Sports Editor

The Rose Hulman Institute of Technology men’s basketball team used a balanced scoring attack to lead a strong second half performance, earning a 76-61 win at Bluffton University on Saturday afternoon.

With the score tied at 48-46 with 10 minutes remaining, Rose Hulman outscored Bluffton 28-15 the rest of the way to improve to 1-2 in Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference play. The balanced attack featured five players in double figures, led by Craig McGee with 20 points, seven rebounds and six assists.

Michael Lake contributed a career-high 19 points on 4-4 from three-point range and four assists to the effort. Terry Hicks recorded his first double figure game at Rose Hulman with 13 points. Eli Combs added 11 points and five assists, and John Czarnecki pitched in with 10 points and a season-high nine rebounds.

Rose Hulman led 20-28 at the half on a shot by McGee in the final seconds of the opening 20 minutes. In the second half, Rose Hulman built a 48-40 lead before Bluffton scored eight straight points to tie the score.

McGee proved the Engineer difference maker in the final half, scoring 17 points after halftime. The score was tied at 30-30 before a 12-2 run by the Engineers over three minutes proved the key. Combs capped the rally with a three-point shot at the 3:01 mark to make the score 62-52.

Rose Hulman improved to 1-6 overall and 1-2 in conference play. The Engineers return to home to with a non-conference matchup against Walshab College on Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Swimming & Diving

Caleigh Kintner
Sports Editor

The Rose Hulman swimming and diving teams collectively earned 20 points in the 100-yard freestyle.

The Rose Hulman men outdistanced the competition to win the team scoring with 20 points. The Rose Hulman women captured the women’s team title, followed by Milligan, Hanover, Hulman and Wittenberg.

Brendan King led the individual performances with three event victories. King won the 200 freestyle, 200 butterfly and 500 freestyle.

Jared Brown added two individual victories for the men, winning the 50 freestyle and 100 freestyle. Other individual winners included William Kemp in the 100 backstroke, Derick Miller in the 100 butterfly, and Shamus Sparling in the 100 breaststroke.

On the women’s side, Elisa Weber led individual efforts with two event wins. Weber swept both the 200 individual medley and 400 individual medley titles.

The Fighting Engineers also swept the two diving titles, with Michelle Busey winning 1 meter and Michaela Kivett winning 3 meter.

The men’s squads also won all five relay events. The 200 freestyle team of King, McLaughlin and Brown won in 1:24.96. The 200 medley relay team of Ryan Niki. Elian, Brown, and Kemp won in 1:35.04. The 400 freestyle relay of Kemp, King, McLaughlin and Brown won in 3:07.87.

The Rose Hulman women’s swimming and diving team scored 52 points against Bluffton University.

The Rose Hulman men’s swimming and diving team scored 61 points against Bluffton University.

The Rose Hulman women’s swimming and diving team scored 52 points against Bluffton University.

The Rose Hulman men’s swimming and diving team scored 61 points against Bluffton University.

Rose Hulman returns to action on Friday Jan. 10 with a meet at DePauw University. The home schedule kicks off Saturday Jan. 11 against Illinois Wesleyan.

Men’s Basketball

December 16: vs. Wabash
January 4: vs. Hanover
January 8: vs. Earlham
January 11: @ Mt. St. Joseph
January 15: vs. Anderson
January 18: vs. Transylvania
January 22: @ Franklin
January 25: vs. Bluffton
January 29: vs. Manchester
February 1: vs. Mt. St. Joseph
February 5: @ Anderson

Women’s Basketball

December 16: vs. Warsaw
December 29: vs. Washington and Lee
December 30: vs. New Paltz
January 4: vs. Hanover
January 8: @ Earlham
January 11: @ Mt. St. Joseph
January 15: @ Anderson
January 18: vs. Transylvania
January 22: vs. Franklin
January 25: vs. Bluffton
January 29: @ Manchester

Swimming & Diving

December 10: @ DePauw
January 10: @ Illinois Wesleyan
January 13: vs. Valparaiso
January 24: vs. Franklin
February 1: @ Hanover
February 13: HCAC Championship
February 14: HCAC Championship
February 15: HCAC Championship

Women’s Basketball

December 16: vs. Warsaw
January 4: vs. Hanover
January 8: vs. Earlham
January 11: @ Mt. St. Joseph
January 15: vs. Anderson
January 18: vs. Transylvania
January 22: @ Franklin
January 25: vs. Bluffton
January 29: @ Manchester

January 10: @ DePauw
January 13: vs. Illinois Wesleyan
January 17: vs. Valparaiso
January 24: vs. Franklin
February 1: @ Hanover
February 13: HCAC Championship
February 14: HCAC Championship
February 15: HCAC Championship

Photo by Rose-Hulman Athletics

Photo by Rose-Hulman Athletics
WACKY PROF QUOTES

"I guess I didn’t use Civil and Environmental Engineering, so it’s not important.”
- Dr. Sid Stemn

Did your prof say something hilarious or just great out of context? Did you hear something amusing on your jaunt about the fine halls of this institution? We want to hear about it! Send your quotes with who said it to thorn.flipside@rose-hulman.edu or fill out this nifty google form: https://goo.gl/forms/bB319xs65GbNh9qYt

Rudolph the “Red-Nosed” Reindeer
Rainn D. Eeer

Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer. Everyone knows his name, everyone knows his story. He was treated poorly by the other reindeer just for having a glowing nose, but then Santa Claus needed a light on his sleigh, so he had Rudolph lead him. This is the story of Rudolph...or so we thought.

For the past few Winters, I have been investigating more and more into this legend, and whether Rudolph really is all he’s cracked up to be. Most of the leads I have gotten have gone cold. Either an address that doesn’t exist, or a fake name. But last week, I was able to finally find something. I was fortunate enough to interview one of Santa’s elves thanks to a few connections I have. The elf asked to remain anonymous, so we will call him Bob.

Bob had some incredible information about Mr. Red-Nose, and to be honest, I was shocked when I first heard it. Bob says that one day while he was in the locker room after elf practice, he heard a funny noise coming from the stall Rudolph was in. When Rudolph came out of the stall, there was something faint and white by the nose. Bob said his eyes were bloodshot and he was not able to walk steadily.

I do not want to jump to any conclusions, but could this mean that Rudolph the Red-Nosed-Reindeer is actually Rudolph the White-Nose-Reindeer? I’m not sure, and I can’t be until I get more evidence. Sadly, before I could reschedule another interview with Bob, he was killed in a tragic sleigh accident. I am not trying to hurt anyone’s feelings or change their opinion about the legend many consider the hero of Christmas, I just wanted to shed some light on a flawed Deer.

The Rose Thorn’s Triannual Best Holiday Dishes To Make If You Have To Make A Dish But You Don’t Want To Ever Have To Make One In The Future, So You Make The Worst Dish Possible AKA How To Use The Most Mayonnaise In A Dish As Possible (TRTTBBDTMIYHTMKADBYDWEHT MOITFSYMTWDPAHTUTMMIADAP)
Bananas, cranberry jello, and mayonnaise for the melted wax

Liver and cream cheese balls in a turkey flavored gelatin

TOP TEN
Worst Christmas Things

1. All I Want for Christmas is You - Mariah Carey
2. Die Hard
3. Die Hard 2
4. Die Hard with a Vengeance
5. Live Free and Die Hard
6. A Good Day to Die Hard
7. Rudolph the Red Nose Reindeer
8. Frosty the Snowman
9. Candy Canes
10. Mistletoe
11. Baby It's Cold Outside
12. Santa Baby - Michael Bublé
13. Figgy pudding
14. Non-alcoholic Eggnog
15. Consuming gingerbread (constructing OSHA compliant ginger buildings is a -ok)
16. The weird jello things that your aunt brings to Christmas because she can't cook
17. Green deviled eggs
18. Green ham
19. Sitting on Santa’s oddly warm lap

Heard ‘Round Campus
acc free prostate exam
“Been there, done that. Ain’t gonna fool me three times.”

Vegetable and Tuna Jello Thing
Green Corn Flakes Christmas Tree

Cream cheese, jello, pasta, raisins, and cranberries

CHRISTMAS PUDDING

Fold sour cream, vermicelli, raisins into cheese mixture.
To make topping, stir cranberries into thickened juice.